Blacking the Store.

Coffee is used for mixing blacking for the stove, in order to make it stick closer and last longer. Most housekeepers prefer the oldlashioned blacking to any of the cements, because of its lasting qualities. "The cement is easier to apply, as it requires no labor in polishing. No stove should be blacked more than once a month, but it should be keps clean by instantly wiping off any clots of grease which may be spilled upon it. The flues of a stove should certainly be cleaned as often as once a month.
